Yesterday's Results

At San Francisco 7, Portland 1.
At Salt Lake 6, Oakland 2.
At Los Angeles 5, Vernon 11.

Bun-Brier whacked his twenty eighth homer for Salt Lake.

Oakland never had a chance against Bill Piercey, the Salt Lake bowler, and was lucky to get two runs to the Saints six.

Callahan, the Vernon short, and McLarry, Los Angeles keystone sacker, battled 1000 yesterday.

It was average fattening day at Washington Park. Callahan got five bingles out of five trips, including two doubles and McLarry hit three in a possible three, throwing in a double and a triple.

Vernon won the slogging bee, 11 to 5, after 28 hits had been made.

San Francisco made seven earned runs off Portland and won although Rudy Kallio, Seal pitcher, had to quit in the fourth.

Admit Loss of Bridge.

Petrograd, Oct. 25.—Russo-Rumanian forces have abandoned their positions at Cernavoda, the eastern end of the great railway bridge leading into old Rumania, under Mackensen's attacks, it was officially admitted today.

The Lasavla lake positions have also been surrendered to the enemy whose heavy attacks continue on the whole Dobrudja front. The Russo-Rumanians, resisting Mackensen's pressure, are retreating northward.

Shelled the British.

London, Oct. 25.—The Germans shelled the British front northeast of Courcellette and also along the Posieres-Bapaume road with great violence last night as if in preparation for a great counter attack. General Haig reported this afternoon that a heavy rain impeded operations.

A German Estimate.

Berlin, via wireless to Sayville, L. I., Oct. 25.—The Russians have lost 1,797,522 men in killed, wounded and captured since the Galician offensive began June 1, the semi-official news agency declared today, quoting the Central identifying office as authority.

Among these were 85,981 officers. Two generals, six colonels of brigades, eight colonels and lieutenant colonels, regimental commanders are among the Russian officers recently fallen.

The great number of casualties were among the Siberian corps and the Caucasian cavalry.

Capture Many Prisoners.

Sofia, Oct. 25.—Our right wing has reached Caramurat and Dokuzov villages, 18 miles northwest of Constantinople, it was officially announced today.

Bulgarian infantry forces have occupied Medjidli (probably Medjidia). The Bulgars have captured 50 officers, 2,200 men, 30 machine guns, five locomotives and 200 railway wagons.

Neaf Caramurat, the Bulgars dispersed Russian battalion No. 275, capturing the commander and 800 men and also a Rumanian brigade and command.

Say Allies Are Helping.

London, Oct. 25.—The allies are taking every possible step to protest Rumania, David Lloyd-George, secretary for war, declared in the house of commons this afternoon.

That the car shortage in Oregon is not getting any better is evidenced by the report of the Southern Pacific to the public service commission yesterday when they stated they lacked 2519 cars. All the cars available yesterday numbered only 378.

State Engineer Lewis, who has been on a tour of inspection through eastern and central Oregon by automobile, is expected back in Salem this evening. He went over the Cascades through the McKenzie Pass and went east as far as Ontario, near the Idaho line. He went over the routes of proposed highways and investigated other matters connected with his office.

Episcopal Delegates Put Ban On Liquors

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 25.—A resolution passed by the house of deputies today asks all members of the Protestant Episcopal church of America to refrain from the use of all alcoholic and intoxicating liquors at banquets or gatherings.

The resolution was sent to the house of bishops for concurrence this afternoon. It was thought the resolution would be concurred in by the upper house without much debate.

The resolution did not ask abstinence from intoxicants in the home and it made it plain that it was not a prohibition move but an appeal for "temperance" among church folk.

ATTEND YOUR CHURCH AND HEAR OF SALEM

All Salem Pastors to Talk On Civic and Social Betterment of City

Modern progress emanates from co-operation, which is the most modern means for advancement. Without it retrogression would be certain and rapid.

The United States of America presents the most magnificent example in all history of unity through co-operation. Democracy itself lives only by the co-operation of the people in this country numbered in the millions.

The city which aspires to supremacy must have harmony among its citizens, among its commercial houses, among its leaders. United action is essential to modern progress in city development.

The reorganized Commercial club merges in its membership all the active forces of progress in public affairs. The commercial organization places the city before the outside world. To the world, it is Salem.

The primary object of the Commercial club is to perfect organization and stimulate concerted thought and action among all citizens and all associations for betterment and progress.

In this it should appeal to every thoughtful citizen and receive from such his earnest support.

Remember "Salem Week", October 29 to November 4.

By all means go to church next Sunday. You will learn a few things about Salem that you don't know now. Every pastor will preach on the theme, "Why I Believe in Salem."

Thousands of Salem creeds will be distributed Sunday. These have been provided by the Salem Commercial club and will be well worth taking home to place on the dresser with the photographs of your friends.

The creeds are postcard size, printed on tinted cardboard and set in ornamental type. Neat decorations make the card decidedly artistic and for the sentiment expressed, as well as for the card's neat appearance, the souvenir is something that one will do well to preserve. Go to church, get one of these souvenirs, and take on some of the spirit of "Salem Week," which is devoted to lining up those Salem people who have their city's welfare at heart with the Commercial club and the other forces working to make the city bigger, better and busier.

The Salem creed reads as follows:

I believe in Salem.

I believe in Salem. I believe in those who are here now and in those who will live here in the future. While I'm on the job I'll try to make the other fellow glad that I'm his neighbor.

I believe in Salem. I believe in her wide streets and beautiful parks, magnificent buildings and velvety lawns. No more shall the weeds thrive on my parking lots nor trash be dumped in the alley.

I believe in Salem. I believe in her homes, churches, schools and industrial establishments. I'll do my best to keep my old friend Bill—Dollars Bill—right here, where I shall meet him occasionally.

I believe in Salem. I believe in the open spaces where God's brightness sort o' gets to a man. Blessed is he who, while boosting his own business like Sam Hill, finds time to see the good points of his competitor across the way.

The hummer shall have no place in my tool kit. If I can't get it I'll not knock it. Then, man, will be the satisfaction of knowing that I didn't take to the cellar when there was work to do or failed to join those striving to better things.

I believe in Salem.

LASSEN SMOKING UP

Keeping Yourself Well

HOW YOU GET SICK

Sometimes you overload your stomach with rich foods, and thus you may care for all you eat. But a few days of inactivity show your system does not call for so much. You wake in the morning tired. Your body feels heavy. You know you are not up to the mark. Your digestion has not cared for the overload. Part of it remains. It generates gas that inflames the delicate linings. They fail to pour out the digestive and neglect to absorb the life-giving elements. You know something is wrong. You body feels weak, and soon opportunity is offered for some severe illness.

Taken in time, the indigestion would not become serious. First remove the overload; then soothe the sore membrane; then build up the weakened body. It's simple to say, but not too easy to do. You need help. A tonic that will quicken digestion, help remove waste, soothe the soreness and arouse the system—that's just what you need.

Peruna has an enviable record in this respect. It has aided many thousands in the last century to overcome just these conditions, and thereby prevent serious sickness. The tablet form is convenient for regular administration.

SIX O'CLOCK CLUB DISCUSSES MEASURES

State Treasurer Kay Opposes Two—Dr Doney for Sunday Closing

The Land and Loan Tax amendment to be voted on at the November 7 election is so radical and so socialistic, along the lines of Henry George, that it practically confiscates property. This is the opinion held by state treasurer Thos. B. Kay as expressed by him in his talk before the Six o'clock club last evening at the First Methodist church.

The bill provides that all lands in Oregon be surveyed and a rental value placed, and from this estimate, the state would collect taxes. If taxes are not paid, the state would confiscate the property. Mr. Kay is also opposed to the borrowing of state money, no man with a family and possessing property valued at $2500, being allowed to borrow of the state. Those with less than this amount of property, heads of families, could borrow for five years with no interest charge. He did not believe the bill would receive serious consideration.

But the six per cent limitation tax bill he regarded as a dangerous measure, and one that had a chance of passing. The object of the bill is to prevent the state or municipalities from borrowing an addition of more than six per cent of the amount raised the preceding year. This Mr. Kay claimed, would prevent state or municipal improvement and would seriously cripple the development of the state. The bill would also penalize municipalities that had been economical, as cities that have levied low, would not be able to raise money for improvements, while those that had been extravagant, would have the advantage.

If the bill passes, Mr. Kay pointed out that should any of the state institutions be destroyed, there would be no money to rebuild them, without holding a special election. Nor would there be funds available for the building of roads. Taken as a whole, Mr. Kay declared the provisions of the bill as dangerous to the general development of the state.

The repealing and abolishing of the Sunday closing laws as proposed in an amendment to come before the voters at the coming election, was discussed by Dr. Doney. He said that the present law was enacted in 1885 and that as the law now stands, all Sunday business activities are closed, with but a few exceptions.

While the law is unsatisfactory now, Mr. Doney was in favor of retaining it as a state law, rather than repealing it and having no Sunday law whatever. While he was not in favor of blue laws, the president of Willamette University expressed the opinion that there is much more Sabbath laxity in Oregon than in the eastern states and that much more secular work is done here on Sundays than in the east.

"Some folks do not come here from the east to make their home here on account of the lax conditions of public morals," said Dr. Doney. "As it is, I think we had better keep the Sunday laws we have until stricter ones can be secured. I am not in favor of blue laws. All I want is a wholesome Sunday."

As a means of rest, the Sunday picnic and baseball game did not especially appeal to Dr. Doney. It is a question of morals and we should see that this proposed repeal of the Sunday law is defeated, he said.
